Leader Refuses To Answer Attacks On Tax Proposals

HARRISBURG, April 15 (AP)—Gov. George M. Leader declined comment today on both Democratic and Republican attacks on his reported plan to propose a form of income tax as a means of solving the Commonwealth's fiscal dilemma.

His office said there would be no answer to Coroner William D. McClelland of Allegheny County who said Leader would be "breaking his word" if an income tax is proposed.

McClelland was defeated by Leader for the Democratic nomination for governor in the 1954 primary election.

"Time after time in the campaign," said McClelland in Pittsburgh, "he (Leader) stated his opposition to this vicious and unfair levy."

McClelland quoted the governor as promising last year that there would be no wage tax at the state level if he were elected.

"I then announced my support for him," said the coroner. "The tax-burdened people of Pennsylvania are not in a mood to tolerate false statements and broken promises."

In another development, Miles Horst, Republican state chairman, also reached into the 1954 campaign to remind Leader of a statement he would "substitute anything for the 1 per cent sales tax."

"The governor has been slowly but surely preparing the public for repudiation of his repeated promises to operate the state government without the sales tax and a substitute," Horst said in a statement.

Leader told the Pennsylvania conference on education tonight that the tax program he has worked out is "fair and equitable."

"Burdensome though it may appear, it is the fairest, most workable program that could be devised to meet the situation," Leader said in an address.

In another address, Dr. Willis E. Pratt, Indiana State Teachers College, recommended doubling the capacity of Pennsylvania's 14 state teachers colleges to meet the teacher shortage.

The Commonwealth will need 7,000 new teachers next year and nearly that many each year for the next five years—a need present colleges can't fill, said Pratt.

Delay In Start Of Vaccinations Here Indicated

Program May Be Put Off Week Or More

OFFICIALS OF Monroe County Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said yesterday in all likelihood the original plans to start administering Salk vaccine to second and third grade students of the county next Tuesday will be delayed somewhat.

The indicated that the well-planned local program would not go into action for at least another week.

However, as soon as definite arrangements are made the community will be notified.

One of the factors involved in the delay, it is believed is the decision of high authorities to administer two, instead of three shots of Salk vaccine.

That decision probably delayed the packaging arrangements for shipment of the vaccine from a package of three to two shots.

The local chapter, in cooperation with the school authorities, Medical Society and with the aid of the American Red Cross here are in a state of readiness which means the program can start promptly as soon as delivery of the vaccine starts.

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has told Salk vaccine suppliers to fill orders from "the South up." The same system was followed in last year's field trials.

The reason, Medical Director Hart E. Van Riper explained tonight, is that schools close earlier in the lower tier of Southern states and the polo season begins earlier.

Thus, southernmost states will be taken care of first, then those immediately to the north and so on toward the Canadian border. Some pharmaceutical houses are starting to ship vaccine to southern states.

Initial shipments, Dr. Van Riper disclosed, are only 90 per cent of the amount of vaccine needed for the first two shots. The 10 per cent few-way the foundation is allowing itself takes into account absentees from school when the vaccine is given and those children whose parents refuse the inoculation.

HARRISBURG, April 15 (AP)—State Health Department officials today maintained a fruitless vigil for official notification of when the new Salk anti-polio vaccine will be shipped to Pennsylvania.

"We have been told that the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has sent out orders to drug companies listing the requirements for each state," said Dr. William D. Schrack Jr., of the department's Preventative Services Bureau.

"We also were advised that we would be notified when we could expect the shipments of the vaccine to arrive at distribution points in the state," he added.

"But to date I have been keeping an anxious vigil with no results."

The vaccine was officially declared 80 to 90 per cent effective last Tuesday. It was developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh.

However, Dr. Schrack urged county and lower level inoculation program heads to continue their plans to begin the shots for first and second grade school children on Monday.

"I think, even though we have not received any official word yet, these distribution and inoculation centers should hold to their plans to begin Monday or soon after," he said, adding:

"I hope they don't postpone their plans until the very last minute."

Godfrey Discharges Six Singers, Three Writers

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—In a bid to regain a top spot on the air, Arthur Godfrey today fired six singers—half the vocal cast of his television and radio shows. Three writers also got the ax.

"We've become top-heavy with stars," Godfrey said in an announcement that rocked the entertainment world like nothing since his much-publicized firing 18 months ago of Singer Julius La Rosa.

The Godfrey show has slipped out of the top 10 in ratings. The

Eden Calls Elections For May 26

LONDON, April 15 (AP)—Prime Minister Eden tonight called a nationwide election for May 26 to stabilize the nation after the wrench of Sir Winston Churchill's retirement.

Nine days after taking office, the new Prime Minister thus challenged the divided Labor party to a political fight that could spell the end of his administration.

Eden acted as distant storm clouds gathered on the British economic horizon.

Speaking in a clear firm voice over the country's radio network and with strikebound national newspapers silent, the Prime Minister declared:

"The Parliament elected in 1951 is now in its fourth year. It is therefore not surprising that there should be expectation of a general election."

"Uncertainty at home and abroad about the political future is bad for our influence in world affairs, bad for trade, and unsettling in many ways. I believe that it is better to face this issue now."

Court Ruling Gives Edge To Wolfson

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 15 (AP)—Louis E. Wolfson gained strength in the Illinois Supreme Court today for his showdown battle with Sewell L. Avery for control of the 700-million-dollar Montgomery Ward & Co.

The court ruled all nine director positions will be up for grabs on a vote basis at the annual meeting of Ward stockholders in Chicago April 22.

The ruling was a victory for Wolfson who sued to knock out an unconstitutional Ward's system of electing only three of its nine directors each year. The court held the system unconstitutional.

This gives either side a chance to elect a majority. Under the old system Wolfson could, at best, have placed no more than three of his director candidates on the board this year.

Ward's stock jumped a point and one-half on the New York Stock Exchange after the ruling.

Moscow Angler, Samuel Pickrell, Fatally Stricken

SCRANTON, April 15 (AP)—A veteran fisherman, Samuel Pickrell, 79, RDI, Moscow, near here, was found dead today—the opening of the trout season—along the bank of nearby Roaring Brook.

Pickrell's fishing line was found tangled in a tree near his body. Deputy Coroner Dr. J. E. Knedler, said death resulted from a heart attack.

U. S. Navy's Rain Experiment Flops

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—A two-year Navy attempt to alter the weather along the East Coast by seeding storm clouds has flopped.

"The experiment lent no support to the theory that seeding can make, break or change a storm in a big way," was the official report today from New York University, which evaluated the tests.

Renew Request

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—The nation's railroads today again asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to make their present freight rate structure permanent.

red-haired showman said he hopes to regain stature by changing the format, to make the program more a showcase for new talent and less patterned.

"We are going to try to break into the top 10 again with a new show," he told a reporter. "This will give more people a whack at it, give more opportunity."

The big housecleaning cost the job of the Mariners, a mixed Negro and white male quartet whom Godfrey once swore by. Marion Marlowe, fiancée of one of Godfrey's producers, and Haleloke, the show's little Hawaiian singer. Writers fired were Charles Horner, Preston H. Miles and Charles Slocum.

"These people have all achieved stardom and I am proud of them," Godfrey said of the singers in a formal statement through CBS. "I wish them well in every respect."

However, the suddenness of the discharges left Miss Marlowe in tears and near hysteria. Another CBS master of ceremonies, Ed Sullivan quickly signed her on his once-a-week variety show for a six weeks run at twice her salary with Godfrey.

Miss Marlowe, a brunette beauty with a normally pert personality, sobbed to Sullivan:

"I'm out of a job. I don't know why."

Democrats Yield To South, Agree To Let Members Bolt Party Without Punishment

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—Democratic leaders bowed to the South today by offering a compromise in the three-year-old "loyalty oath" fight under which most party members could bolt the presidential ticket without punishment.

With party officials talking hopefully of success in next year's election, an advisory group headed by former National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell laid out the compromise in a confidential report to be acted upon tomorrow.

An effort to force delegates to pledge support of the party's nominees split the 1952 convention wide open. A compromise at that time called for delegates to give their best efforts toward getting names of the nominees on the ballots in all states.

The name of President Truman was not on the ballot in Alabama in 1948. A States Rights ticket carried Alabama and a three other Dixie states but Truman won the election.

The Mitchell report proposed that the national committee adopt a resolution saying:

1. "It is the assumption and understanding" that in picking 1956 nominating convention delegates, state party organizations would undertake "to assure" that the national ticket would get on the ballot of their states under the Democratic label.

2. "That no commitments shall be required of delegates to the Democratic national convention in the absence of credentials contests . . ."

3. "That it is the duty of every member of the Democratic National Committee to declare affirmatively for the nominees of the convention and that his or her failure to do so shall be cause for the Democratic National Committee or its duly authorized subcommittee to declare his or her seat vacant."

While the advisory group was moving toward party harmony, the national committee wrangled at its session over whether to name three new vice chairmen.

Visit Of 11 Russian Editors To America Stymied By Refusal To Be Fingerprinted

By Tom Whitney

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—It was supposed to be a hands across the Iron Curtain affair, a chance for some Russians to see what the United States is like. Now it's fouled on a question of fingerprints.

Eleven Soviet editors who were to arrive next Tuesday for a 30-day tour of the United States are still in Moscow. Their passports are in the American Embassy and their visas are ready but they refuse to pick them up. They don't want to be fingerprinted.

Unless this misunderstanding between the United States and Soviet Russia is cleared up by top-level action in Moscow or Washington, the 11 Soviet editors are not likely to come here at all.

If the editors don't come, probably the proposed delegation of Soviet farmers to Iowa will not come either.

Rep. Francis E. Walter

Warren Vows He'll Never Be Candidate

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—Chief Justice Earl Warren declared today he has turned his back on party politics for the rest of his life and would not be a candidate for president "under any circumstances or conditions."

Warren, former Republican governor of California and 1948 GOP candidate for vice president, issued a formal statement after a nationwide poll reported he was the top choice of Republican and Independent voters for the GOP nomination if President Eisenhower failed to seek re-election.

His statement, believed unprecedented for a Supreme Court Justice, strongly recalled the 1883 declaration of Gen. William T. Sherman: "If nominated, I will not accept. If elected, I will not serve."

The 64-year-old Warren said: "My name has been used as a possible candidate for the presidency."

"This has been a matter of embarrassment to me because it reflects upon the performance of my duties as Chief Justice of the United States."

"When I accepted that position, it was with the fixed purpose of leaving politics permanently for service on the court. That is still my purpose. It is irrevocable. I will not change it under any circumstances or conditions."

"Be they many or few, the remaining useful years of my life are dedicated to the service of the Supreme Court of the United States, in which work I am increasingly happy."

Warren read a "strictly confidential" letter he said he wrote to Dulles on March 14 in which he questioned Corsi's fitness on two grounds:

"1. Mr. Corsi's association with highly objectionable groups and organizations, branded as subversives by the attorney general, and his neglect to resign from such organizations after their true nature has become a matter of common knowledge proves conclusively that Mr. Corsi—to say the least and be merciful—is a person of inferior judgment."

"2. Mr. Corsi should not be entrusted with the administration of laws for which he has expressed contemptuous disdain and contempt."

Walter's letter then cited testimony he said Corsi gave before a presidential commission in 1952. In that testimony, Walter said Corsi described the McCarran-Walter Act as based on "archaic concepts" and said it "must be junked entirely."

He quoted Corsi as testifying: "The world is in too precarious a state for this nation to indulge itself in the luxury of conduct based on the same type of pathological mentality that brought the German people to destruction."

"To base national policy on a type of reasoning which, if displayed by an individual, would place him in jeopardy of commitment to an asylum."

Walter strongly defended R. W. Scott McLeod, State Department security chief and administrator of the refugee program. Corsi has denounced McLeod as among those he said were "sabotaging" the program.

"These charges are absolutely baseless," Walter said, "Mr. McLeod is trying to do a job for America. If he was to turn his back on the security phases of the law he would be guilty of violating the law."

Telegrams flew back and forth between the State Department and the U.S. Embassy. It is understood the embassy recommended that in view of the previous cases the 11 editors not be fingerprinted. Washington replied this was impossible: The law required it for all comers.

U. S. Ambassador Charles Bohlen has talked about the whole thing with the Russians' first deputy minister of foreign affairs, Andrei Gromyko; with Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, and finally also with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

So far no one has yet said the editors would not come.

But they haven't come after their passports either.

Recommended Dismissal Of Dulles Aide

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) disclosed today he had recommended that Edward Corsi be fired as "a man of very poor judgment." He said Corsi once referred to framers of the McCarran-Walter immigration Act as "Nazis" and "candidates for an insane asylum."

Walter, a co-author of the law passed in 1952 over former President Truman's veto, testified before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee investigating the row over Corsi's ouster last week as Secretary of State Dulles' adviser on immigration problems.

A bizarre sidelight on Corsi's brief career in the State Department was developed in testimony that when Corsi made a trip to Europe the department sent a former Texas Ranger with him to report on his activities.

This story, originally told by Corsi, was confirmed before the subcommittee by R. W. Scott McLeod, State Department security chief.

McLeod identified the Ranger as Roy Wade and said that in addition to his experience as a Ranger, Wade had worked for newspapers in New York and elsewhere.

"He endeavored to be of assistance," McLeod said of Wade, "and he did report to the department concerning (Corsi's) activities."

McLeod said he agreed with Dulles' decision to fire Corsi because he said he was "treasoning all over the place without the authority or responsibility for decisions."

Corsi, scheduled to be heard later, contends Dulles yielded to Walter's demand for his dismissal because "he had to work in Congress with men like Walter."

Walter also criticized the Eisenhower administration's Refugee Relief Act of 1953 as "phony." He said Democratic lawmakers, then in the minority, were given "little opportunity" to offer suggestions.

At the same time he emphasized he favors admitting victims of wartime tyranny into the United States, saying he personally had arranged for the entry of 10 refugees shortly after World War II.

Walter read a "strictly confidential" letter he said he wrote to Dulles on March 14 in which he questioned Corsi's fitness on two grounds:

"1. Mr. Corsi's association with highly objectionable groups and organizations, branded as subversives by the attorney general, and his neglect to resign from such organizations after their true nature has become a matter of common knowledge proves conclusively that Mr. Corsi—to say the least and be merciful—is a person of inferior judgment."

"2. Mr. Corsi should not be entrusted with the administration of laws for which he has expressed contemptuous disdain and contempt."

Sunday School Lesson

Rehoboth, King of Judah. How his kingdom was divided because of his unwise decision. Scripture—II Chronicles 16-13; I Kings 12.

By Newman Campbell
OUR LESSON today is taken from the history of Israel and Judah. Three kings had reigned over a united Israel—Saul, David and Solomon. Under them Israel had experienced her greatest glory, reaching the nation's peak in Solomon's reign.

Underneath this seeming prosperity, however, there was secret rebellion. Extravagance, immorality and idolatry flourished. An unbearable load of taxation was secretly but bitterly resented. This finally resulted in the tragic division of the kingdom which was never again to be reunited, as we shall see.

It is queer, our commentator tells us, that although Solomon had 70 wives, we know of only one son, Rehoboth, son of Naamah, who was an idolress for whom Solomon built a high place to Moloch in front of the temple. Moloch was one of the gods worshipped by pagan Ammonites.

Solomon eventually died and Rehoboth reigned in his stead. "And Rehoboth went to Shechem, for to Shechem were all Israel come to make him king."

Do you remember Jeroboam, who had been driven into exile by Solomon? He was in Egypt, where he heard that Solomon had died, and he returned and came with the people to see Rehoboth crowned.

The people now complained to Rehoboth, saying: "Thy father made our yoke grievous; now therefore ease thou somewhat the grievous servitude of thy father and his heavy yoke that he put down upon us, and we will serve thee."

Rehoboth put them off, saying, "Come again unto me after three days," so the people went home.

The king first called a council of the wise, old men who had counseled Solomon, and he asked them, "What counsel give ye me to return answer to this people?" "And they spake unto him, saying, If thou be kind to this people and please them, and speak good words to them, they will be thy servants for ever."

Being an arrogant man, Rehoboth, however, turned away from such wise counsel of the old men and asked the young men who had been brought up in the luxury and licentiousness of King Solomon's court what they would counsel. They told him not to ease the burdens borne by the common people, but to increase them.

So this foolish man, then in his 42nd year, told the people: in kind language: "My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add thereto, my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions."

What was the reaction to this stupid and harsh speech? How would any liberty loving people react to such tyrannical, arrogant words?

"What portion have we in David? Neither have we inheritance in the son of David; every man to your tents, O Israel; and now, David, see to thine own house. So it at the ringing cry, 'To your tents, O Israel!' all went home. The tribes of Judah and Benjamin stayed with Rehoboth, but the other 10 formed the kingdom of Israel, and chose Jeroboam for their king.

After the division of the kingdom, Rehoboth gathered together a large army from his two tribes to fight against Israel and get it back under his rule. "But the word of the Lord came to Shemaiah, the man of God, saying, speak to Rehoboth, the son of Solomon, king of Judah, and to all Israel in Judah, and Benjamin, saying:

"Thus saith the Lord: Ye shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren; return every man to his house; for this thing is done of Me."

The Lord's order was obeyed. Then Rehoboth built a number of fortified cities and stocked them with provisions and arms against possible enemies. After that he followed in the steps of his father, Solomon and took many wives and concubines and had 28 sons and 60 daughters, forsaking the way of the Lord.

Then Shishak of Egypt, who in the Egyptian records is the Pharaoh Shoshonk I, invaded Judah and seized the fortified cities, and he found Judah so incapable of withstanding invasion, that they yielded to him . . . the precious treasures of the temple and the king's palace."

That is the story of a man who, given power, used it tyrannically, and ruined not only himself, but destroyed his nation. We wonder if unhappy Rehoboth ever learned that compassion for the poor and oppressed, kind words and understanding of others are "more to be valued than great riches."

MEMORY VERSE—"If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him."—James 1:5.

Methodists To Worship At Canadensis

TOMORROW morning at the Canadensis Methodist Church, the worship is planned to bring the people to the knowledge of the ever-living Christ by reviewing, in a sermon entitled, "Believing Thomas," the story of Thomas' encounter with the Risen Lord.

The Senior Choir will sing an anthem, Mrs. Mahet Thomson will join the church by transfer of letter from the Downingtown Methodist Church. This service will commence at 10:45 a.m. Rev. Edgar B. Moore is the pastor.

Mrs. Nelson Stern and Mrs. Charles Siglin will be in charge of the nursery.

Tonight from 5 to 7, a beef dinner will be served in the church. This dinner is sponsored by the Sewing Circle and will be for the benefit of the church.

THE "GOLDEN AGE" banquet will be held in Stroudsburg Methodist Church dining room next Wednesday at 6:15 p.m.

The purpose of the banquet is to honor and recognize the older members of the church, many of whom have grown old in its service.

A turkey dinner will be served and a reception and a program of entertainment is planned. Members of the church who are 70 years of age and over will be honored guests. A charge of $1.50 per person will be made for other members and friends who attend.

Rev. John R. Hoeman, pastor of the Canadensis Methodist Church, will be in charge of the service.

Minister Suffers Bruises When Car Is Hit By Taxi

REV. HERBERT F. Gernert Jr., pastor of the Lutheran Churches at Zion, Middle Smithfield, and St. Mark's, Minisink Hills, was shaken up in an accident in Baltimore, Md., Monday enroute to the Mt. Airy Theological Seminary in Philadelphia from Washington, D. C.

A long distance phone call received by Rev. William F. Wunder from Pastor Gernert indicated that his car was demolished when it was hit by a taxi. Rev. Gernert was not seriously injured. However, he was hospitalized briefly to determine the extent of his injuries. Nothing serious developed other than a number of bruises.

The pulpits in Rev. Gernert's two Monroe County churches will be supplied by Rev. Wunder on Sunday afternoon.

Church To Honor Veteran Members

THE "GOLDEN AGE" banquet will be held in Stroudsburg Methodist Church dining room next Wednesday at 6:15 p.m.

The purpose of the banquet is to honor and recognize the older members of the church, many of whom have grown old in its service.

A turkey dinner will be served and a reception and a program of entertainment is planned.

Members of the church who are 70 years of age and over will be honored guests. A charge of $1.50 per person will be made for other members and friends who attend.

GOD
at home

God is everywhere! And yet we speak of a church as God's House.

Well, man is everywhere. His planes soar above the clouds, his mines tunnel through the earth, his rails span mountains and plains, his ships ply the seven seas.

And yet, every man cherishes the one place he calls home. He cherishes it not for its location or appearance, but for the love and companionship he has experienced there.

In similar spirit man has thought it no blasphemy to call each church the House of God. For He Who made man in His own image must feel the same impelling attraction for the scene of His communion with those He loves.

The greatest honor you can bestow on a friend is to invite him into your home. Each hour of worship God invites you into His.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Where Credit Is Due

An outstanding demonstration of unselfish giving is that of the men who are inmates of the New Cumberland, Pa., disciplinary barracks and whose record of participation in the recent Red Cross campaign is remarkable to say the least.

Their gift total in excess of $3,500 is a material amount, of course, but even more impressive is the very fact that men behind wire can submerge their feelings of misfortune, and perhaps of resentment against the world, in favor of giving of their savings to an essential organization.

Col. E. H. T. Schechinger, who has been commanding officer of the disciplinary barracks for several years, is properly proud of the record of the men, an average far above the individual gifts of both civil and military organizations.

These men, who are undergoing military punishment for one reason or another, are mindful of the service to the armed forces given by the Red Cross at home and abroad and they have not permitted their presence in the disciplinary barracks stockade to militate against their grateful acknowledgment of such service.

Many who are not in the unfortunate status of inmates at New Cumberland but who failed to respond as these men did might well meditate over the spirit behind such giving.

The Citizen's Right To Know

Our government is an overgrown, rambling, awkward structure, put together piecemeal over the years.

It is so big and so diverse that no President, or a department head, nor even a bureau chief, possibly can keep his hand on the controls.

In our country, the Government belongs to the people—not, as in Russia, the people to the government.

That being so, the people have a right—constitutionally, morally, traditionally—to know what their Government is doing, and how, and why. They are paying for it—in sweat, taxes and sometimes with lives. And it is their majority judgment which, in the long run, determines the Government's policies.

It is this situation, unique in America, which has brought about the current many-sided discordance in the Government's information policies.

Here is Admiral Carey, the nation's No. 1 Navy man, caught in the middle because of an off-the-cuff, do-not-say-who-told-you backgrounder he held with 20 Washington newsmen—among them the best and most ethical in the business.

Here is Defense Secretary Wilson trying to crack down on information issued by professional information-givers in the Armed Forces' own organizations—an order that for the moment seems to have led to more confusion, in the Pentagon at least, than anything else.

And here is President Eisenhower saying that too much technical military information has been made public—to the benefit of those who would destroy us.

But, in our huge Government, there always are too many who will use that excuse to cover up any information. There also are many willing to run to the public with news they think will make them look good.

Either way you cut it, there is some danger. But we think, by and large, the greatest danger is in misinforming, or not informing, our own people.

It would be better for us, in many cases, if the Russians knew what we were doing—barring, of course, genuine military secrets. And whatever our Government does it cannot do effectively without the support of the people. That, we should think, ought to be the overriding factor in the Government's information policies.

George Sokolsky Says...

Bandung Conference One Of Most Vital Events To Have Occurred In Recent Years

From many standpoints the Bandung (Bandung) Conference is one of the most important events to have occurred in recent years. It is the first time in human history that 30 nations of Asia and Africa meet for any purpose at all; they meet on this occasion to assert the equality of the pigmented peoples of the world with so-called "white" peoples, the Western Europeans and Americans.

Called by Burma, Ceylon, India, Indonesia and Pakistan, it is largely a creature of Nehru and an assertion of maturity by countries which were once part of the British Empire. The other 25 nations who will attend are: Afghanistan, Cambodia, Central African Federation, (Red) China, Egypt, Ethiopia, Gold Coast, Iran, Iraq, Japan, Jordan, Laos, Lebanon, Liberia, Libya, Nepal, Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Sudan, Syria, Thailand, Turkey, Vietnam (North), Vietnam (South), Yemen.

Of these Ethiopia, Iran, Iraq, Philippines, Thailand, Turkey, and Pakistan may be regarded as friendly to the United States. It is today impossible to include Japan in that list because Japan's position grows more precarious every day, particularly after our State Department would not permit Japan's Foreign Minister, Mamoru Shigemitsu, to strengthen his position by coming to the United States. Shigemitsu had, it is true, little to say that could not be said through ordinary diplomatic channels, but he needed "face" by a visit to the United States and that for some inexplicable reason was withheld from him. We may be forcing Japan into the arms of Red China.

One of the subjects to be discussed at Bandung is the position of Asia and Africa in relation to problems affecting national sovereignty, racialism and colonialism. This item must include the question of the successor sovereignty of China, whether it is Communist China of Nationalist China and therefore the whole problem of Formosa will be thoroughly ventilated. Red China will make the claim that the United States has restored colonialism in Asia by its Formosa policy. The Philippine delegate, Carlos Romulo, will undoubtedly defend the American position, but whether our few friends at the Conference will be able to prevent a resolution against the United States is to be seen.

Dr. Saifuddin Kitchlew, President of the All-India Peace Council, states the case for the pro-Communist China group as follows: "In India, we are unanimous that Taiwan must be restored to China. Again and again our Prime Minister has opposed the outrageous farce of representation of the Chiang Kai-shek coterie in the United Nations. We have demanded resolutely that the Chinese People's Republic be granted its rightful place in the United Nations."

"We know well that the Governments of the United States and Great Britain are breaking solemn obligations, freely entered into, when they prevent the restoration of Taiwan to the Chinese People's Republic. International agreements and declarations, signed by the President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Great Britain, are being shamelessly violated, and an effort is being made by these powers to appear as 'peacekeepers,' preventing Chinese 'aggression' against poor little Chiang Kai-shek."

It is not true that the United States has broken any agreement with the Chinese People's Republic, with which it has no agreement. What Dr. Kitchlew refers to is the Cairo Declaration which was made jointly with Chiang Kai-shek. Nevertheless, men may believe what they choose and this Indian chooses to believe that the United States occupies Chinese territory, namely, Formosa. Dr. Kitchlew states further:

"Just as our fight for the end to the slavery of Goa is the fight of the whole world against colonialism and for freedom, so also is the fight for the liberation of Taiwan."

It is this position against the United States that Peking sought to strengthen by capturing the islands of Quemoy and Matsu prior to the meeting of the 30 nations at Bandung. Chou En-lai would then have been able to come into the Conference as an all-conquering hero who defeated the United States twice and France once. Probably had he taken Quemoy and Matsu, Red China would be waging war for Formosa during the Conference and Japan would be forced to fall into Chou's lap. Perhaps that is why Admiral Robert B. Carney thought that the Red Chinese could move about April 15. It was a logical date in view of the opening of the Bandung Conference on April 18.

skies, revealing an exhilarating scene in which millions of kids, sturdy and with faces aglow paraded across the scene casting away crutches and braces. The "all clear" signal came in three simple words: "The vaccine works!" The joyous cries from parents everywhere, the crooning of babies and the deathless words "Suffer little children to come unto Me!"

Here was the picture of atomic man, atomic labors and atomic dedication. Here was Tiny Tim, holding the hand of Dr. Jones Salk and saying to the evil Herod, the Killer of the Innocent, "Buster, we've got you nearly licked." Here was a quartette made up of the scientist, the family doctor, the spirit of F. D. Roosevelt and the Infantile Paralysis Association, making the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse scam from the front page. Applauding in the shadows we saw the ghosts of innumerable polio victims, hosts of medical men dead too soon from exhaustive battles, and such stout predecessors of Dr. Salk as Walter Reed, Jesse W. Slesinger, Jenner, Koch, Lister, and Fleming and Pasteur in times of other pestilences. This was a week of weeks and one for the ages.

Dinner Honoring Rayburn To Have A 1954 'Angle'

Washington—Democratic leaders will get their first full-blown opportunity to look over their 1956 presidential timber when almost the entire party brass gathers in Washington, Saturday, April 16, to pay tribute to House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

In many ways, the huge gathering to honor "Mr. Sam" might be compared to the 1952 Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner at which ex-president Truman, surrounded by potential presidential candidates, announced he would not seek re-election.

Former Illinois Gov. Adlai Stevenson, who was drafted for the 1952 nomination, will be on hand April 16 just as he was at the historic 1952 dinner. The celebration for Rayburn will replace the traditional Jefferson-Jackson Day gathering this year.

Those Democrats who do not look with particular favor on Mr. Stevenson as their standard bearer for 1956 will be given a chance to look over a full crop of possible presidential timber at the Rayburn dinner.

Among the probable contenders in addition to Stevenson who are expected to attend the session are Senators Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, a top favorite in 1952; Stuart Symington of Missouri, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Robert S. Kerr and A. S. Mike Monroney, both of Oklahoma; Richard Russell of Georgia, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas.

In addition, a large group of Democratic governors—including a number of possible presidential candidates—will be on hand. Among them probably will be such top contenders as Averell Harriman of New York, G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, George Leader of Pennsylvania and Robert Meyer of New Jersey.

Life With Ivan—Labor department analysts are studying the recent increase of articles in the Moscow-published Communist party newspaper which deplore the low quality and scarcity of consumer goods throughout Russia.

The Pravda stories ask such questions as "where can one have a coat made, a suit repaired and cleaned, or get repairing done on foot-wear, a radio, a watch, or a velocipede?" Pravda continues, "Not always is it easy to answer this question."

In the Soviet, shops for the most part are co-operatives and although the artisans are controlled by the government, they are not paid by the government.

Regarding shops and services, one Pravda article said, "In many consumer service shops, service to customers is crude, as is the equality of the work done."

Sniping Season—Meanwhile, it looks like the Democrats are going to step up their attacks on President Eisenhower. He is no longer off-limits insofar as political sharpshooting is concerned.

The Democratic attacks may not be as bitterly pointed as the personal assault made against the chief executive by Senator Matthew M. Neely (D), West Virginia, who assailed Ike for not only his golf and fishing proclivities but deprecated his church-going activities.

Nonetheless, party strategists are fast becoming convinced that the President will be the Republican nominee in 1956 and they are therefore entitled to take verbal potshots at him.

One indication of this fact that even after Neely's blistering attack received adverse reaction from the press and public, Senator W. Kerr Scott took the Senate floor to label the President "the master architect of confusion."

Sports Analyst John Drebinger joo-pools experts who declare that the Giants' present manager, Leo Durocher, is east in the same mould as his famous predecessor, "Muggsy" McGraw. Durocher, points out Mr. Drebinger, fiddles around and experiments with his line-up all through the spring months, with the result that his Giants are usually still buried in the second division come July, and have to play like fury in the stretch to make a respectable finish.

McGraw, on the other hand, believed in getting his club away winging. When the team didn't have it, the collapse in mid-season often was complete—but by that time the club's coffers were bulging. "In New York," he argued, "the first half of the season spells financial success or failure. July and August offer too many counter-attractions. If you're still in the running, September crowds are pure velvet."

Widows Of Six Supreme Court Members Pensioned

The ladies — The widows of six supreme Court Justices are now receiving $5,000-a-year pensions Congress voted this last year, when it was learned that Chief Justice Vinson died leaving his wife without income. The new pension is being paid to Mrs. Vinson; Mrs. Harlan Stone, widow of Vinson's predecessor; Mrs. Butler; Mrs. Wiley Rutledge; Mrs. Robert Jackson, and Mrs. Mahlon Pitney, whose husband died in the '20s. . . . Senator J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.) wants the picture of famous American women to adorn paper money. He has introduced a bill to do that. Fulbright says it's not a new idea; that the picture of Martha Washington appeared on bills prior to 1860, and that the Confederacy had women's pictures on several issues. . . . Representative Sidney Yates (D., Ill.) has won a fight against discrimination aimed at women because of age in government offices. He got the House to vote a bill expressly prohibiting that. Yates argued, "I have discovered that the Civil Service Commission is restricting many jobs to persons under age 35. Women who had applied for jobs as stenographers in various cities have been refused consideration because of being over 35. That is most unreasonable and steps should be taken to correct it immediately." The House did by approving his measure overwhelmingly.

There has been one noticeable change in Mrs. Merrivether Post since her recent divorce from former Ambassador Joseph Davies. Her hair is no longer brown; now it's on the snowy side. At a big Easter reception, Mrs. Post topped her new snowy hairdo with a crown of yellow, white and mauve pansies. The intriguing effect drew many compliments.

This largely-attended diplomatic party was also the scene of an event Washington society had been eagerly awaiting since Mrs. Merrivether Post's divorce — a public meeting between her and her equally-socially active former husband. The encounter was uneventful. He bowed and smiled; she nodded and smiled; Davies' married daughter, who was with him, said cordially, "Hello," and that was all. Quiet and polite, and a good time was had by all.

Netherlands Ambassador and Madame Van Roijen gave a cocktail party for tulips. They were prize blooms brought over especially for the occasion from Holland. Most of the diplomatic corps turned out to see the spectacular tulips, and they were worth it. Even Soviet Ambassador Zarouhin, accompanied by his wife, was on hand. The Soviet envoy was very proper; he said nothing about Russia originating tulips. Among the breathtaking blooms were "Queen of the Nile," a sultry maroon; "Golden Age," a rapturous yellow; "Aristocrat," an exciting lavender pink; and "Shakleton," a gleaming white. . . . The Pan-American Union, often called the most beautiful building in Washington, is being used more and more for large official parties. Secretary of State Dulles and other cabinet members are using the large mansion for affairs that require inviting several hundred guests.

What They're Saying — Representative Clarence Cannon (D., Mo.), chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee, has decided to support the President's defense budget. Cannon has told Speaker Sam Rayburn, Tex., and Democratic Floor Leader John McCormack, Mass., "I'm against any big increases or cuts in the military budget. I think the best thing to do is give the President what he asked for, and put the full responsibility on him. If he turns out to be wrong, then it will be his responsibility. . . . Mrs. Clare Luce set social tongues wagging with her account of how she preserves her silvery blonde hair. Said the glamorous Ambassador to Italy, "I dyed my hair for three years. Then, when I didn't have time any more to continue doing that, I discovered my hair had turned exactly the shade I wanted." To which a local society editor retorted, "My, my, how conveniently miraculous. . . . The new censorship policy in the Pentagon is being so rigidly observed that General Matthew Ridgway declined to talk to several old newspaper friends without an official from Defense Secretary Wilson's office being present. When the latter reported no representative was available at that time, Ridgway asked the reporters to leave until a spokesman from Wilson's staff could attend. . . . The Internal Revenue Service may close down several hundred of its one and two-member offices in small communities throughout the country. The economy plan would save an estimated $5,000,000.

Tit For Tat — Senator Henry Dworshak (R., Ida.) is having a sizzling postal battle with New York business leaders over the President's proposal to extend the Reciprocal Trade Act.

The Idahoan, a leading critic of this measure, became irked at a barrage of publicity in favor of it. So he wrote protesting letters to Eugene Holman, board chairman of Standard Oil Company, and Charles Gingham, chairman, New York Chamber of Commerce.

The increase in nonfarm households between 1946 and 1954 was 9.5 million; nonfarm housing starts in the same period only 4.6 million, or 76,000 less. In other words, taking households alone, there is still some catching up to do because new units built in the post-war period still lag behind new households.

An increase in household formations will begin in the 1950s, if not before, as a result of the increased birthrate of the 1940s. This is not conjecture. It is a certainty based upon the number of children born during the 1940s, who will reach maturity, marry and start families during the 1950s.

Many Homes Over Age In Nation

—by H. G. Heller

The controversy about over-building of homes and high mortgage debt finds the National Association of Home Builders blasting out in opposition in this manner:

Those who cry "over-building" conveniently ignore the fact that more than two-thirds of the existing nonfarm homes are 35 or more years of age; that at least seven million homes are either dilapidated or lack inside plumbing, and that the attrition of housing in the United States is at an annual rate of 109,000 to 125,000 houses.

Those who cry "over-building" also ignore the continuing growth of the American population and its mobility — 30 million Americans moving annually, many from rural to metropolitan areas where housing is "tight." There now are more than 164 million Americans. By 1965 the experts expect the figure to reach 190 million and by 1975 in excess of 230 million. The American birthrate is rising — there was a record 4.1 million births in 1954 — and more and larger families will be formed.

Much has been said by those who profess alarm at the current volume of building about the Bureau of Census report that new non-farm household formations declined from 554,000 in 1953 to 337,000 in 1954. There are three salient factors to be taken into consideration in any attempt to reconcile the number of family formations with the volume of home building:

1. Family formations are only a part of the demand for new housing, as the National City Bank of New York noted in its January, 1955, News Letter, which said:

"Today it is generally the people who already have a house or car or home appliances who are the heart of the market for a new version. The housing boom is kept going, to a considerable degree, by families who want larger, better, more modern homes in suburban areas, not — as was the case in early post-war years — the newly-formed-families who wanted any sort of moderately-priced shelter."

2. The increase in nonfarm households between 1946 and 1954 was 9.5 million; nonfarm housing starts in the same period only 4.6 million, or 76,000 less. In other words, taking households alone, there is still some catching up to do because new units built in the post-war period still lag behind new households.

3. An increase in household formations will begin in the 1950s, if not before, as a result of the increased birthrate of the 1940s. This is not conjecture. It is a certainty based upon the number of children born during the 1940s, who will reach maturity, marry and start families during the 1950s.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Fireball At Ann Arbor

Reports from Ann Arbor were incomplete. For this while not reported as such, was an explosion of vast proportions. A superblast at a killer of the young. Here was the "benic-o-tomic" bomb, its component parts compaction, dedication and unrelenting effort.

No need for special glasses or attire, except for three observers named Plague, Pestilence and Epidemic. Nobody had to hide. For this was something to be seen in the open and rejoiced at. There was no fear of "dust fall-out." The only fall-out was limited to the golden grains of human mercy and the pearls of medical deduction.

The sad mood of man in a day of global frightfulness, crisis and atomic death was illuminated by a blinding flash from THE HEALERS AND NOT THE KILLERS. Here was no fireball of horror and searing desolation, but one of hope, faith and freedom from human suffering and emancipation from a source that poked on the kids. Here was a zero hour watched by millions, a spectacle gripping mind and heart. . . . a memorable picture of MAN SAVING MAN. . . . A 3-D portrayal of gallant adventure in the world of medical miracles. Yuco! Flats gave way to the lovely name of Ann Arbor. Ugly towers, trenches and shelters bowed out for instruments of medical research, the shell of quiet laboratories and the words of dedicated men in white.

This was a "faithomatic" bomb. In the brilliant light were no screaming populations and flaming cities, but a warning picture of the rescued young. The cloud took strange formations, among which was the shape of a great knight, his foot on a fallen dragon, its heart pierced by a test tube! . . . this formation drifted out to be replaced by the likeness of a mother and babe, with a great star above and the plainly written words "Lighten Your Fears." A secondary explosion within the cloud then lit up the

Fisherman Pays Fine, Leaves Jail

A MAN who told authorities he couldn't read the words "no fishing" because he never went past the fourth grade paid $107.50 for flunking reading yesterday.

Fish Warden Floyd Bachman said the man's name was Joseph David Stout, 27, of East Stroudsburg RD3. Stout was arrested by Bachman and Game Protector John Doehling.

The two officials found Stout fishing in nursery waters in Broadheads Creek near Pinebrook, they reported. They took him before East Stroudsburg Peace Justice Herbert Boner.

Charged with violating fishing laws, Stout entered a guilty plea. He was sentenced to Monroe County jail for 108 days by Boner.

Last night Stout paid a $100 fine and $7.50 in costs and was released from jail.

Three Plead Not Guilty In Lottery Case

THREE MEN, two from Bethlehem and one from Mount Pocono, were bound over for the June term of Northampton County Court this week on charges they were involved in a treasury ticket lottery operation.

All three pleaded not guilty before Alderman E. D. Warg in Bethlehem. They were listed by authorities as Lloyd Lutz, 44, Mount Pocono; Francis G. Cunningham, 53, of 520 Alaska St., and Russell Borman, 26, of 719 Hill St., both Bethlehem.

Police said the men were taken into custody in a dual raid by state police of the Bethlehem barracks.

Sgt. Leonard Pictou of state police testified that he confiscated a package carried by Lutz containing $2,400 in cash. Police also said a printing shop at 44 Raspberry St., Bethlehem was raided and yielded six plates police claimed were allegedly used for the printing of "result" sheets.

The Commonwealth was represented by George Weitzman, Easton, assistant district attorney. Cunningham and Lutz were represented by S. Maxwell Elfter, of Easton, and Borman by Morris Mindlin, Bethlehem.

Few Anglers On Streams For Opening Of Season

IT WAS a fine day for fishin'—but the crowd along the stream banks was light.

Yesterday, on the opening day of the 1955 trout season, most fishermen who hit the trail for the dozens of good streams in the Poconos indicated it had been a successful day.

Monroe County Fish Warden Floyd Bachman said there weren't as many anglers out as there have been on opening days in the past. Most of the ones who did go caught three or more, some reached the limit, Bachman said.

The fish warden reported two violations on opening day. One was the case of an East Stroudsburg RD3 man who paid fines and costs totaling $107.50 (see separate story).

The other involved a Stroudsburg man, Floyd Pugh, who paid a $20 fine to Bachman after he was caught dragging for suckers in a county stream.

HARRISBURG, April 15 (AP)—Pennsylvania anglers agree there were plenty of fishermen on hand for today's opening of the 1955 trout season but some are wondering where the fish were.

First day reports ranged from spotty catches in some eastern and western counties to record catches in central counties.

Rain and fog harassed the early morning fishermen in most sections of the Commonwealth. However, the clouds had dispersed by noon in most sections, the rain stopped falling and the sun began to shine throughout most of the state by early afternoon.

Some 1,500 fishermen cast their lines into Pittsburgh's North Park but few bites and fewer catches were reported.

Clinton County streams were reported the scene of "very good catches throughout the whole day."

One report stated that more anglers were fishing in that area this year than in the last ten years.

A large turnout at all streams was reported in Lehigh and nearby counties with "perfect fishing weather" prevailing most of the day.

Creeks in many areas were reported high and muddy due to recent rains.

This was blamed by many for the small catches in the state.

Hundreds of lucky fishermen took up their posts at streams with the 5 a.m. starting signal and crested their eight-fish limit before four hours had lapsed.

Couldn't Recall Her Name But Knew How To Place Her

FROM NOW on no names will be necessary when you ask to speak to a clerk in the Register and Recorder's office at the courthouse.

Witness what happened yesterday morning:

The phone rang. It has a habit of doing that in the recorder's office. Most of the time the party on the other end wants to talk with a local attorney.

When Chief Clerk Kathryn Bush answered the phone, a male voice on the other end came up with:

"Let me talk to the girl who sits next to the window."

"Just a minute," said Miss Bush. She called Alma Brands to the phone.

Mrs. Brands sits next to the window in the office. Turned out the caller was a Wilkes-Barre attorney who had gone over some records with her before.

Wanted her to look up something up for him, but couldn't remember the name.

Car, Truck In Collision

ABOUT $550 damage was caused when a car hit a rigid-rigged company truck on Route 611 at 8:45 a.m. yesterday.

Driver of the car was Albert Fitzgerald, 56, Syracuse, N. Y. State police said. The accident happened at the intersection of Route 611 and L. R. 4560. Police said the truck was waiting to make a turn off the highway when the car hit it from the rear.

Owner of the truck was Shanley Cigar Co., Stroudsburg. Driver was Thomas J. Shanley, 31, Stroudsburg RD2.

The car was towed from the scene with damages estimated at $500. Damage to the truck's rear end was about $50, police said.

Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald, Syracuse, suffered a bruised right arm and shock. She was taken to General Hospital for treatment by Gerald Shanley, Stroudsburg, police said.

Scout Councils Buy Property For $17,500

PHILADELPHIA and Valley Forge Boy Scout Councils paid $17,250 for a one-acre tract and buildings on it in Middle Smithfield Township, according to a deed filed yesterday in Monroe County Court-house.

The deed was put on record in the office of Floyd Butz, register of wills and recorder.

Parties making sale of the land were Mary Conklin, Henrietta Stabler and Susan Butler Dent, executrices of the will of Thomas J. Butler and the First National Bank and Trust Co. of Bethlehem, acting as executor and trustee of the Butler estate.

Philadelphia National Bank was listed as trustee for the Valley Forge and Philadelphia Councils, Boy Scouts of America.

The Philadelphia Council recently purchased a 4,000-acre tract of land in Middle Smithfield near Resica Falls. The one-acre tract purchased from the Butler estate is located off a road leading from Marshall's Creek to Porters Lake.

Other deeds filed at the office showed these transactions:

Mr. and Mrs. Arden Wilde, Pike County residents, sold a lot on Fairview Ave., Mount Pocono, to Angelo DeSanto, that borough.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gallow, Middle Smithfield, sold a lot in that township on the road from Coolbaugh to Shawnee to Mr. and Mrs. Raul Longworth, Shawnee.

High School Girl, Two Boys Hospitalized After Auto Goes Off Road, Overturns

A 16-YEAR-OLD EAST Stroudsburg RD girl was in "fair" condition at General Hospital last night. She was injured when the car she was driving ran off the road on a curve one mile north of Bushkill on Route 209.

The injured girl was Cynthia Middaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Middaugh, East Stroudsburg Star Route.

Two passengers in the car—Clara Strunk, 17 and William T. Neison Jr., 16—were admitted to the hospital for observation. They were apparently not injured, hospital authorities said.

Mifflord State police said the accident occurred at 3:45 p. m. yesterday. Police indicated Miss Middaugh apparently failed to negotiate a curve in the road.

The new car swerved off the road and overturned. It was completely demolished, police reported. Owner of the car was Mrs. Theresa Plaza, East Stroudsburg RD 2. It was driven to East Stroudsburg High School yesterday morning by Mrs. Plaza's son, Gene.

Plaza and the other three young people are students in the junior class at the high school. Plaza was not a passenger in the car when the accident occurred. He had left the high school earlier by bus with members of the school baseball team en route to Port Jervis for a game.

Miss Middaugh and the other two students were apparently on their way to Port Jervis for the game when the accident happened.

Youngsters Remembered At Hospital

EASTER TIME brought a shower of gifts to children in Monroe County General Hospital.

Last night Harry Smith, hospital superintendent, asked The Daily Record to express public appreciation from the children and the hospital for the thoughtfulness of groups sending gifts.

Those who sent or brought presents to the hospital on Easter Sunday were the following, Smith said:

Girl Scout Troop 14 of East Stroudsburg, Junior Tri-Hi-Y groups of Monroe County, children from Stroudsburg Methodist Sunday School, Girl Scout Troop 26 of Hamilton Elementary School, Shawnee Sunday School children, and the Salvation Army.

THE RUSSIANS DON'T LIKE THIS—but fingerprinting is a valuable part of U. S. plans for Civil Defense. At Day St. CD meeting recently police fingerprinting experts from Wyoming barracks fingerprinted all those in attendance, including the unidentified young man shown here. Purpose of the program is to set up a personal identification file. Someday the file may include prints of every man, woman and child in this State. For residents who want fingerprints taken: contact the nearest police station, either borough or State. CD officials feel fingerprints will aid in identifying persons in case of disaster. The Russians, however, take a different view of the ink-stained pinky. Russian refusal to have prints taken may hold up visas for Red editors to visit U. S. Jobless Payment Chiselers Warned Of Stiffer Penalties

SECRETARY OF LABOR and Industry John R. Torquato has announced that penalties for chiseling against the Unemployment Compensation Fund have been extended and made more severe, according to John P. Dougherty, manager of the East Stroudsburg office of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service.

The heavier penalties for fraudulent claims are included in a series of recent amendments to the state's Unemployment Compensation Law which were signed by the governor March 30 and are now in effect.

"Unemployment compensation," Dougherty quoted Torquato as saying, "is for the benefit of those who are truly eligible, and chiselers will be penalized according to the measures provided."

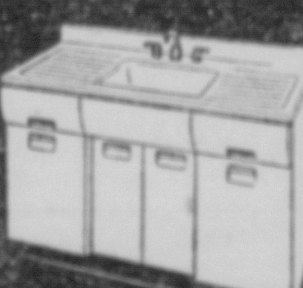

Torquato explained that any person convicted of willfully making false statements or failing to disclose necessary information in order to obtain benefits to which he is not entitled may now be sentenced to 30 days in jail or fined from $50 to $200 or both. Dougherty added. Also, he stated, that a person will be ineligible to receive benefits for one year after the date of conviction. Each false statement or concealment of information shall be considered a separate offense, Torquato pointed out.

Prior to the amendments the fines ranged from $20 to $50.

The amendments also provide for an administrative penalty to be imposed by the Bureau of Employment Security against any claimant who knowingly makes false statements or who fails to disclose necessary information in order to obtain or increase his unemployment benefits, Dougherty said.

21-IN. TV IN EVERY ROOM—There are 16 individual units like this one pictured above. Each is equipped with 21-inch TV, has a separate dressing area and ceramic tile bath. Each room also has its own distinct color scheme. The one above has matching grey modern furniture and aqua-colored bathroom fixtures. Walls, bedspread and pull drapes are in gay, contrasting colors. Each room is also completely sound-proof and equipped with individually controlled thermostats.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH FARDA, owners of the Paramount Motel, who will be your hosts tomorrow afternoon during Open House. Mr. Farda, who is a former Yonkers, N. Y., contractor, supervised the entire construction operation. The beautiful color schemes and attractive furniture arrangements you'll see tomorrow are the result of Mrs. Farda's interior decorating talents.

SPACIOUS MAIN LOUNGE—This is the first thing you see when entering this beautiful new motel. Though entirely modern in design, the whole lounge radiates a feeling of quiet relaxation. Walls are paneled in honey-colored straightened cedar and the floor is covered in colorful asphalt tile. Each of the 16 units, Mr. and Mrs. Farda's apartment and maid's quarters branch off from this centrally located lounge. Construction on the motel started last April. Future plans call for many more features, such as macadam approachways, swimming pool, and air conditioning.

Just what is the Ground Observer Corps?

The Ground Observer Corps is the grass roots element of the nation's air defense system. Individually it is the man or woman who scans the sky, looking and listening for a sign of approaching hostile aircraft. Collectively, the G.O.C. is hundreds of thousands of patriotic Americans who have volunteered a part of their spare time to protect our nation from the devastation of a surprise enemy air attack.

Day and night, in thousands of observation posts, and dozens of air defense filter centers throughout the country, friends and neighbors stand guard over the security of our country, protecting you against the dangers of an air attack that might come at any minute. These men and women fully realize that the information they plot and relay to the Air Force may some day give our interceptor pilots the early warning they need to combat an enemy air attack and give civilians more time to reach shelter.

Won't you join this vital task . . . your nation's air defense? Volunteer today for the Ground Observer Corps. Be proud to wear the G.O.C. wings. You need give only a few hours a week to help keep your home and country safe.

Two Concerts Scheduled By College Chorus

CALYPSO DANCERS and colorful flappers of the Gay Twenties will spark the ESSIC College Chorus program next Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. and Thursday at 10 a.m. in the college auditorium.

The chorus members, under the direction of Dr. R. William Graham, have expanded their activities to include lively dancers in gay costumes and rhythmic jazz numbers from a Dixieland combo. The latter portion of the program will feature a Mardi Gras setting and several television type production numbers.

The concert will open with a Ringwald setting of Chopin's E Major Etude entitled "Hymn To Music." Following will be religious works by Stainer and Venet, illustrating opposing philosophies of music in the worship service.

"In The Golden Afternoon," a song made famous in Walt Disney's motion picture, "Cinderella," will also be sung by the 60-member chorus.

Dr. Graham has set to music a series of verses written by Ogden Nash in a unique creation, "Carnival of Animals." These songs point out the distinguishing features of turtles, fish, chickens and elephants.

The second portion of the program will present the chorus singing its original theme song, "Mardi Gras," to usher in a festival built around an imaginary tribute to a New Orleans fiesta.

At this time there will be a coronation of the queen of the Mardi Gras. The chorus will then entertain the queen with its rendition of the "Birth of the Blues" which features a saxophone solo by Terry Bartholomew.

The Fred Waring arrangement of "That Old Black Magic" will be sung by a select group. The Graham Crackers George Barna will take the part of a witch doctor in a haunting dance. This production number will end with a Calypso dance routine.

Louise Faye will illustrate the jazz rhythm of the Negro spiritual when she sings, "Lord If I Got My Ticket, Can I Ride?"

The traditional Dixieland band will be felt in a series of numbers beginning with "Basin Street" as sung by Kathy Mertz. From here,

Pocono PTA Gives $150 To Playground

Tannersville—In response to a plea by Harry Werkheiser, gym teacher at Pocono High School, the Pocono Township PTA voted to contribute $150 to buy additional playground equipment.

The president, Joseph Parsons, named Werkheiser, Vincent Marek, Mae Below to serve as a committee to purchase the equipment.

Parsons also appointed Mrs. Jergen Aik and Frank Mooney to the auditing committee.

Werkheiser invited members of the PTA and the general public to attend a driving demonstration to be held Tuesday, April 19, at 10:30 a.m., near the Tannersville Reformed Church.

Mrs. David Nielsen, program chairman, presented a musical program directed by Mrs. Mary Rees, music teacher. Members of the fourth grade presented a flutophone concert. Janice Gessner and Gladys Metzger presented an accordion duet. The finale was a medley of tunes sung by the girls ensemble of the chorus. Mrs. Lillian Peckatka was accompanist for the program.

Open house and refreshments in the school cafeteria followed the program.

Square Dance Tonight

Cherry Valley—The Cherry Valley Grange square dance will be held on Saturday night at 8:30 at the grange hall in Stormville.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

I wish I had gone fishing. Certainly the fishermen, even the ones shipping water over the top of their hip boots, were more comfortable than I caught in the flood of post-Easter stories that mounted head-deep at times.

From all the swirling eddies, I fished me out a few ideas—but you should see the ones that got away. One, I managed to land was the cooperation being shown by Soroptimists and Medical Auxiliary in this matter of girls interested in nursing as a career.

The Soroptimists are hustling the application forms for scholarships to be ready in time for the Medical Auxiliary's tea for the girls.

Another common denominator among the church women of the county is their study courses, pursued in Woman's Guild or circle meetings. This year the theme is "The Church in the City," or variations thereof, and no matter what the denomination or the size of the church, the women have been studying and discussing along similar lines this past winter.

It sounds good to say "this past winter," doesn't it? And another common topic of conversation yesterday was surprise that the weather had fooled the weather forecasters and turned out so pleasant after all.

Pleasant, too, was the news that crowded the social pages to the bursting. Usually Easter isn't the time for engagements, but this Easter time certainly had its share.

Just the same, I'm glad this is Saturday.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook on the Party Line over WFTO every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 10:05 a.m.

PTA Opens Sports Night To Women

Women are also invited to the Men's Night program of the Stroudsburg Parent Teachers Association to be held Monday night at 8 in the high school auditorium. Mrs. Roger Stinson will preside at the business meeting and the discussion concerning organization under the new school union set-up.

The committee on evaluation of the local PTA which has been studying the program and projects this year will make its report and its recommendations.

The program is a Sports Night program, planned for the men but with features to interest the women, too. In fact, one of the specialty numbers will feature a sextet of girls. Under the direction of Miss Virginia Miller they will present a demonstration of rhythmic.

Wrestling demonstrations, scholastic-style, will be presented under the direction of a student teacher, Ken Cox, featuring three matches between high school boys and one between college students. Climax of the program will be a sports forum with Alfred W. Munson, principal, as moderator, and with John Kupiec, basketball coach; Jerry Stulgaitis, football and baseball coach; Samuel O. Wells, assistant principal and Mahlon Serfass, faculty athletic manager, taking part.

Program chairman is Horace Westbrook, and the program has been arranged by T. Manning Curtis, Stroudsburg athletic director.

The public is invited to the meeting and the program and to remain for the social hour afterwards when refreshments will be served by the teachers. Mrs. Margaret Smith, Miss Anna Rusopulos, Miss Anna Stem, Mrs. Gertrude Welsh, Miss Barbara Transue, Mrs. Romaine Rough, Miss Elizabeth Martin and Miss Edna Marvin.

Mrs. Stinson has called an executive board meeting for 7:15 in Room O.

Miss Nadine Bloss Engaged To Wed L. Tewksbury

Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Bloss of Scotrun, Pennsylvania, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nadine Alice, to Laurence Alfred Tewksbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl V. Tewksbury of RD 2, East Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania.

Miss Bloss is an alumna of Pocono Township High School, Tannersville, Pennsylvania, in the class of '54. Her fiancé will be graduated from the East Stroudsburg High School in June.

The betrothal was announced on Easter Sunday at a dinner at the home of Mrs. Anna Prechtatka, Scotrun, Pennsylvania.

Easter Supper At Bonser's Honors Fred Tittle

Saylorsburg—An Easter supper was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Bonser celebrating the birthday of Fred Tittle.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tittle, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bonser, M., and Mrs. Robert Tittle, Mrs. Catherine Bittenbender, Mrs. Ethel Tittle, Cathann Bonser, Nina Bonser, Joan Tittle, Robert Bonser, Carl Tittle, Larry and Gene Bittenbender, Bobby Tittle Jr., Harold Tittle, Rudy Bonser, and A. C. Gerald R. Tittle of Preque Isle, Maine, who spent the weekend with his family.

Earlier callers included Mrs. Marjorie Hoffman, Mrs. Weston Finner Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Kern, Jean Tittle, Melvina Finner, Jackie Kern, Weston Finner III.

High School Girls To Be Guests At Tea

The annual tea for high school girls of the county interested in nursing as a career will be held on Sunday, April 24, at 1:30 at the General Hospital. It was announced at the meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Monroe County Medical Society held on Thursday night at the hospital.

The tea is an annual affair with a varying program. This year the program will include a panel, as well as a tour of the hospital and refreshments. Invitations have been issued to all 8 high schools of the county.

The program for the Auxiliary was presented by Dr. Lincoln Kutsher who showed a film, "Which Fate?" which showed in dramatic form what might happen to a stray dog committed to a pound in contrast to dogs used for medical research.

Mrs. David Kohn, president, announced an executive board meeting to be held Thursday, April 21, at 1 p.m. at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Mizpah Class Has Meeting

Mrs. Clinton Stoult was hostess to the Mizpah Bible Class of the First Baptist Church on Thursday night at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Harry Hinton. The business meeting was followed by a Bible quiz and social time.

Those attending were Rev. and Mrs. N. R. Savage and daughter, Ruth Ann; Mrs. Phillip Meyer, Mrs. Ada Poortstra, Mrs. Allan Paul, Mrs. Floyd Clifton, Mrs. Annetta LeBar, Mrs. Mary Kunkle, Miss Jean Lowry and the hosts.

Elementary Chorus To Sing For PTA

The East Stroudsburg Parent-Teachers Association will meet on Monday night at 8 p.m. in the senior high school on North Courtland Street, instead of their usual meeting place.

A special program has been prepared featuring the elementary school chorus and other musicians under the direction of Miss Marguerite Cramer.

During the business session, officers will be elected for the coming year. A social time with refreshments will follow the meeting.

Soroptimists Prepare Nurse Applications

The Soroptimist Club held a business session at the home of Mrs. Florence Clark, Main St., Stroudsburg, when plans were discussed for the annual rummage sale for the benefit of the club's major project, their nurse scholarships. The rummage sale will be held April 28, 29 and 30, and they will welcome donations from friends as well as members.

The scholarship application forms have been standardized and the club plans to have them available for the high school students interested in nursing who attend the tea being held at the General Hospital on Sunday, April 24, under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Monroe County Medical Society.

A number of members plan to attend the Soroptimists meeting in Bethlehem next Wednesday and others may make reservations through the president, Mrs. Jean Barthold.

Following the business meeting moving pictures taken at the December meeting of Soroptimists were shown. Attending the meeting were Mrs. Barthold, Dr. Nina Mae Price, Mrs. Alice Saunders, Miss Marguerite Clarkson, Mrs. Lillian Wagner, Mrs. Lulu Harvey, Mrs. Ethel Johnson, Mrs. Stella Shade, Miss Margaret MacLaren, and the hostess, Mrs. Clark, who served refreshments during the social hour.

ITU Auxiliary Has Nominations

The Woman's International Auxiliary #113 to the ITU met on Wednesday in the CLU Social Club, with a fine attendance of members. Emily Severson, president, presided. Plans were made for the annual banquet to be held on Tuesday, June 7, with Ruth Smith and Ann Laine as co-chairmen of arrangements.

Nominations of officers for 1955-56 was held, with the following being nominated: for president, Mary Maxwell; first vice-president, Lucille Diehl; second vice-president, Sophia Blacker; recording secretary, Veronica Michaels; secretary-treasurer, Emma V. Knib; sergeant-at-arms, Mabel Kanner; and chaplain, Hilda Kitzman. Election will take place at the next regular meeting.

Committee for May was appointed as follows: Mabel Kanner, Ann Laine, Helen Rode and Prima Merwarth. Refreshments were served by Rose Falst, Ellen Verway, Marie Werkheiser and Florence Steele. The tables were decorated with an abundance of early spring flowers and yellow candles.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

It was my privilege the other afternoon to participate in a program of the General Hospital Auxiliary at Skytop and hear Mrs. Ashton Burrows speak on the subject of prayer. Oddly enough, most of us refrain from discussing that topic as embarrassingly as we shrink from a discussion of our intimate affairs—almost as though we would rather be caught peeping in a neighbor's windows than be caught talking with God.

Mrs. Burrows discussed all phases of prayer . . . what it can accomplish . . . how it should be made . . . the time when it is most effective . . . and the spirit in which it should be offered. She read also from several of the very fine books available through churches and book departments, offering help in one's daily meditations.

As I listened, there in the beautiful library at Skytop with the Easter tulips still blooming gloriously just inside the rain drenched windows, it occurred to me that prayer is perhaps taking on a new significance in our national life. Everyone was intent on Mrs. Burrows' remarks as she read some of the great hymns that are prayers . . . and we were all properly respectful when her address had ended. It seemed to me that, while this was a subject one did not ordinarily expect to encounter at Skytop on a dreary afternoon around teatime, it was one for which many of us had felt a great need.

I have been equally surprised to find that shoppers who stop to examine the newly arrived pictures in our center aisle, are not so interested in the copies of floral masterpieces or landscapes, as they are in the pictures of children at prayer. Many may overlook the beautifully framed oval prints of James Gordon Irving's birds, but no one fails to chuckle over the plump, curly haired little girl who plays near a pool and is watched carefully by her guardian angel. There is, likewise, no one who fails to comment on the charm of those other adorable youngsters kneeling at their bedside to voice their simple words of thanks.

They are delightful pictures . . . no doubt of that. But maybe it isn't just their charm that is willing them to our Wyckoff public. Maybe it is the wonder of the story they tell . . . a story of simple faith; the kind of faith we all so badly need if we are to come, as children do, untouched and serene through the fretful days.

As Mrs. Burrows pointed out, one needs to be on his knees to pray . . . or in a quiet place . . . or alone. One can be anywhere in any attitude and still be on speaking terms with God. Even as I type I can ask Him to bless those I love and speed them on their way . . . or quiet my fears . . . or make this a good day for us all. And being still under the spell of Mrs. Burrows' talk and the center aisle pictures, I do . . . I do.

Stocks React To News Of Good Business

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—Rallying, and steel were buoyant today as the stock market advanced to its fourth straight new record high.

There was ample support from the rest of the list for the advance. It was the market's eighth successive rise.

More than enough good news appeared to brace the plus signs. Commerce Secretary Weeks said 1955 might be the best business year the nation has ever seen.

The year got off to an excellent start toward that goal. The President's Council of Economic Advisors reported gross national product established a new first quarter high.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics found first quarter housing starts at a new high. And the Federal Reserve Board reported industrial production in March at its highest level in two years.

The market had many gains of 1 to 2 points and some running as high as 5 points. As a general rule were small.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1.00 at $164.80, its highest level. New peaks also were scored by the average's components. Industrials were up $1.40 at a record high of $222.50, rails were ahead $1.20 at a new high since 1929 of $134.30, and the utilities were up 30 cents at a new high since 1931 of $164.80.

There were 1,337 individual issues traded of which 636 advanced and 340 declined with 117 new highs and 8 new lows for the year registered.

Volume was the best of the month at 3,180,000 shares. That compares with 2,800,000 shares traded yesterday. Then the market was up slightly in a hesitant manner.

The American Stock Exchange was mostly higher on volume of 960,000 shares as compared with 800,000 shares yesterday.

The bond market was higher. U. S. government issues in the over the counter market were higher.

Majority Polled Favor Sales Tax

PITTSBURGH, April 15 (AP)—A private polling organization said today the majority of persons it polled on possible state taxes favored continuation of the one per cent sales levy.

Guido Post Research said it polled 2,000 persons and that 83

Bingo Kicks Up Great Tempest Across U. S.; Harmless Or Work Of Devil—Nation Divided

By YORK W. Cornell
NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—

"Bingo!" That little word is uttered with as much fervor in religious circles today as it is by the little gray-haired lady who got her card filled first in the big jackpot game of the evening.

"The work of the Devil," some say.

"A harmless, beneficial diversion," say others.

The game, an outgrowth of the political lotteries of medieval Italy, has been kicking up tempests across the country, with repercussions in courts, legislatures, police departments and churches.

Nine states have legal bingo, usually limited to nonprofit charities and churches. Three states tried such plans, but threw them out. At least half a dozen other states have been pondering milder laws to permit the game.

"Bingo is not an evil per se and the interests of the public can be served by its regulation rather than by its prohibition," Father Dominic Hughes and law professor Frederick J. Ludwig wrote in the Catholic Lawyer.

The New York Board of Rabbis said: "To use questionable means for spiritual ends . . . would taint the moral climate of congregational life."

"Bingo," said the National Council of Churches' magazine Outlook, "threatens to vitiate the American spirit of compassion and the sense of community responsibility by which this nation's charities have been richly blessed."

There is no clear-cut religious division on the subject despite some glib assertions to the contrary.

Although most opposition to legal bingo has come from Protestants, and most church support from Roman Catholics, many Catholic leaders also have opposed it. The debate doesn't stick to creedal lines.

Here, in brief, are some of the arguments. First, in favor of bingo:

1. Games of chance aren't basically immoral — just as buying stock in hope of profit or planting corn and gambling on the weather aren't immoral.

2. Bingo is a healthy, relaxing per cent prefer the sales tax, 11 per cent for an income tax and six per cent showed no preference. Gov. George M. Leader and high ranking Democratic legislative men are working out a tax program which is expected to be presented to the General Assembly soon.

amusement, and prizes add to the interest.

3. Bingo sessions can ease the financial strain, often extreme, of maintaining costly parochial schools, a major Roman Catholic burden.

4. Receipts from such games also can support building programs and expansion of the church's ministry, which otherwise might go undone.

5. Through bingo, persons who otherwise might not contribute aid good causes.

Some of the objections:

1. Gambling appeals to greed, the desire to get something for nothing.

2. It creates "bingo addicts," usually among women who can least afford to squander household money in a game whose odds are against a fair return.

3. Legalizing the game, even for nonprofit groups alone, opens the door to professional racketeers, who often get control—and profits—of church concessions.

4. It is self-contradictory and unfair to say gambling is right for the churches, and wrong for the rest of the society.

5. Bingo cheapens the basis of church financial support, and replaces motives of generosity and devotion with avarice and sloth.

Despite the controversy, bingo has become a widespread pastime and big money-maker. Games are widely held in clubs, lodges, veterans posts, churches, fire departments and elsewhere, sometimes against the law.

STROUDSBURG High School's faculty, winner over the school baseball squad by a 6-3 count earlier this month, will try to make it two straight when the two contingents clash again on Tuesday, May 24. This contest has been scheduled in an effort to enrich the treasury of the high school's Varsity "S" Club, the same organization that did such a great job on its car washing project last month. All money collected at the gate will go to the club.

Jimmy Carter, one of the most popular fighters in the history of the Stroudsburgs, telephoned from his Elhan's training camp, at New Providence, N. J., on Thursday night. Jimmy left yesterday morning for Washington, D. C., where he will meet Orlando Zulueta next Wednesday. The fight will be held in Uline Arena and will be a non-title bout. Carter reports himself in good condition and hopeful of a victory, although he admits that Zulueta has probably the best left hand in boxing.

The lightweight champion hopes to return to Harry's Farm to train for his next fight. Carter certainly likes this area. Jimmy has worked at Elhan's over four weeks for Wednesday's bout with Zulueta. Several Stroudsburg High School athletes will pay a visit to Albright College today. Les Switzer, Palmerton High basketball star, is also a member of the track team, where he throws the shot put and discus.

A scheduled archery match between the girls of Temple University and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College has been canceled, at Temple's request. The ESSTC-Rosemont match, listed next on the schedule, is also in the doubtful stage. The trouble in arranging suitable dates for the Crowe's Insurance-Caputo's Service bowling match to decide the Delaware Valley League championship stems from the fact that Caputo's star keeper is currently taking part in the American Bowling Congress Tournament in Fort Wayne, Ind. The two teams tied for first place in the final standings.

The Pasty sale conducted by the Saylorsburg baseball team on Thursday was reportedly a huge success. The team management wishes to thank everyone who had a hand in making the venture so successful. Members of the Saylorsburg club are going to work on their field today. Speaking of working on fields brings to mind the fact that both the Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg Little Leagues will labor on their playing surfaces today.

Stroudsburg's Little League plans an all-day painting marathon, while East Stroudsburg's circuit will begin work at 1 p.m. Fathers of Little Leaguers, team managers and loop officials are asked to assist in each instance. All those reporting to work at the Stroudsburg Little League field are asked to bring a paint brush and an empty can. The league is supplying all paint. ESSTC certainly missed the boat on publicity for the Varsity "S" Minstrel show this year. In the past publicity for this venture has been good.

A total of 13 baseball umpires took the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association examination in District 11 recently and 20 passed, or 70 per cent of those trying made the grade. Twenty-three District 11 umpires were interested to take the exam, but 10 failed to put in an appearance. One of the District 11 baseball officials making the grade is Charley Eden, of 618 Center St., Bangor; another is Bob Mushrush, well known basketball coach at Catawissa.

Melvin Everett, 136 Bankway St., Lehighton, also earned the right to umpire Pennsylvania scholastic baseball games. Olympic Reconditioning Co., East Stroudsburg, reportedly has a golf team that will challenge any other company in the area to a match. Andy Julius will manage the Stockertown entry in the Blue Mountain Baseball League for the first time this season. The Strouds, an entry in the newly formed Bi-State League, have been granted the use of Gordon Giffels Field on Wednesday and Sunday during the coming campaign.

Don't forget that the deadline for registration in the Women's Bowling Tournament at Harmon's Recreation is next Wednesday. The tournament will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, April 27 and 28. The Varsity "S" Club Constitution and By-Laws Committee at Community Jewelers next Tuesday is one of the most important in the history of the club. All committee members are urged to put in an appearance. The by-laws have been drawn up, but now must be approved by the committee.

Tobyhanna Township Blanks Coolbaugh Crew, 3-0

Costanzo Retires 17 On Strikes

POCONO PINES—Willard Costanzo's brilliant two-hit pitching enabled Tobyhanna Township High School to even its Monroe County League record at one win and a single loss yesterday with a 3-0 verdict over Coolbaugh. The contest was played here on the TTHS field.

The game was halted with one out in the home half of the sixth inning by rain.

Costanzo, strong armed right hander, was in complete control of the game from start to finish as he retired the visiting Cool-laugh batters without a single safety until Francis Durchnag singled in the fifth and rival hurler Bob Sapp delivered a similar blow in the visiting half of the sixth. The TTHS retired all but one batter on strikes.

Coolbaugh	0	1	.000	5 1/2

Sapp allowed only six hits by the opposition, but poor support by his teammates and three extra base blows sent Coolbaugh crashing down to defeat in its initial outing of the season.

Yesterday's game was originally slated for Thursday but was washed out the books at that time.

TTHS enjoyed its first of three one-run innings in the initial frame when Joe DeSanto doubled, stole third and scored on an error.

In the second inning Tommy Meekes doubled, swiped third base and trotted home on Kenneth Henning's two-ply wallop.

Henning scored his team's final run in the fifth frame when he reached first base on an error and crossed the plate on three more Coolbaugh bloop.

Costanzo retired 17 batters on strikes to bring his two-game total to 25, after striking out a dozen in the opening game of the current campaign. Costanzo batted out two singles in three trips to the plate yesterday to give him five safeties in six appearances at bat this season.

Polk and Pocono take part in the next Monroe County League game on Monday, at Krongville, Tobyhanna Township will battle Pocono at Tannersville next Tuesday, while Chestnut Hill and Polk clash at Broadheadsville on the same date.

Coolbaugh and Polk battle at Tobyhanna next Thursday, while Pocono and Chestnut Hill clash at Broadheadsville at the same time.
